WHAT PARIS TALKS ABOUT

A Probability of New Revolutions in the Croydon Case to be Made in London.

ESTERNAY AGAIN ACCUSED

N New Parliamentary Ball at Vincennes.—Cabinet Debates—Success Result of the Government's Electoral Campaign.—A Murdered of Six in One Family.

PARIS, March 30.—It is probable that the next few days may witness some further developments in the Croydon case. Mr. Justice Henry, in his charge to the jury, referred to the possibility of new revolutions in the French army, and this statement has been regarded as an indication that the government is prepared to take drastic measures to prevent any outbreak. The French army is still in a state of unrest, and there is a growing fear that the government may be forced to adopt severe measures to maintain order. The situation is extremely critical, and the government is taking every precaution to prevent any further complications.
